a) Examine the teachings of Islam about Ribah (12 marks)

Ribah means excess or addition. This is lending money or earning interest or anything above the principle sum lent.

This can be done by organizations, banks, society, office or even a deal between individuals.

Ribar does not apply only on money. It applies on all kinds of excesses in any community.

This was the order of the day in pre-Islamic Arabia. Though there was no money, the pre-Islamic Arabs used to exchange goods for goods.

Islam condemns usury / ribar and also prohibits it.

These are a number of Quranic verses that were revealed to this effect;
Quran (30:39) says

“That weight you give in usury so that it may increase in other people’s wealth, by expecting to get better one in return from other people’s property has no increase in Allah but that which you give in Zakat for His sake shall be repaid to you many times over.”

Quran (2:275) says

“Those who take usury shall rise up before Allah like men whom Satan has beaten. For they claim that usury is like trading.”

Quran (2:276) says

“Allah has laid his curse on usury and blessed alms giving with increase. He bears no love for the ungrateful sinner.”

According to the Prophet, anything given as a loan to earn profit of whatever dealing is regarded as Ribar.

“When usury or fornication approach a community, the people of that community render themselves deserving the punishment of Allah.”

Another health, the prophet said;

“Allah curses one who witnesses and the one who writes a contract involving interest (Ribah)” (Ahmad, Abu Daud & Nisae)

According to the teachings of Islam, all people involved in Usury are blamed i.e. the giver, taker, witnesses and the writer of the contract.

“Verify the wealth gained in usury, though it be great, is of small advantage” (Muslim)
“When a man makes a loan to another, he must not accept a present (Bukhari)

b) Explain the eventualities of Ribah to the Muslim community (13 marks)

- Ribah / interest / usury promotes laziness in the money lenders.
- Ribah draw wealth in the hands of very few rich people and makes others poor.
- Ribah leads to collapse / failure of peoples' businesses due to too much interest.
- It kills in the money lender all the incentives to help others since lending money becomes his business.
- It creates a tendency of doing things carelessly on the side of the borrower since he / she knows, he /she can acquire a loan at any time.
- It makes debtors develop a tendency of dubious trade in an effort to gain high profits so as to cover the interests.
- On an international scene, interest causes wars.
- Allah reduces his blessings on the people / community which practice Ribah.
- Usury /Ribah encourages specialization which can amount to gambling which is prohibited.
- Ribah keeps a country in a vicious cycle of poverty because the public debt always increase as a result of high interests.
- Ribah leads to other sins/crimes in the community e.g. stealing, corruption, etc.
- Ribah leads to loss of respect especially on the side of the borrower especially when the security is taken.
- Fights and divisions.
- Creates income inequalities.
- May give rise to dubious acts like witch craft.
- May lead to loss of property by the debtors.
- It leads to selfishness and greed among the money lenders.

SECTION B

ISLAM IN WEST AFRICA

- Account for the spread of Islam in the Ancient Empire of Ghana. (25 marks)
- Islam was received in the empire due to the following
 - Its proximity to North Africa was first Islamized made it easily access Islam.
 - Received Islam through the Berbers of North Africa who frequented the area of trade.
 - The fact that Ghana kings welcomed the Berbers traders whom they allowed to operate in this area.
 - The people of Ghana participated in the Trans-saharan trade while escorting Arab traders and Berbers thus becoming Islamized.
 - The establishment of Berber trading center which became strong Muslim centers e.g. at Audaghast, kugu etc.
 - The establishment of many mosques by the Berber traders some of whom were voluntary Muslim preachers (missionaries)
 - The kings of Ghana used Arabs and Berbers as their advisors and interpreters; these used their post to influence others.
 - The conquest of Audaghast, an already Islamised center by Berbers.
 - The bringing of Islamic literature by traders.
 - Intermarriages between the local people and Muslim leaders.
 - Al-moravid movement was an Islamic missionary group that started in North Africa and succeeded in Ghana.
 - The use of Sufi teachings and practices to spread Islam
 - It was spearheaded by great preachers.
 - The role of domestic slavery.
 - The suppression of evil cultures
 - The introduction of Islamic dress

8. The growth and expansion of Islamic influence in West Africa was majorly based on the role of Trans-saharan commercial trade routes. Discuss (25 marks)
- Commercial trade routes connected the interior to the coast.
 - Commercial towns emerged along the routes which facilitated the spread of Islam.
 - Islam items were brought into the interior through these routes eg books, dress etc.
 - Along the routes, madarasa and mosque were established which promoted Islamic growth.
 - Political and Islamic empires developed along these e.g. Mali, Songhai etc.
 - Due to these commercial trade routes, slave trade was given a boost and many of the slaves converted.
 - Intermarriages were boosted as interactions became inevitable with those interior trade routes.
 - Security was created along these routes hence facilitating the easy movement of preachers.
 - Arabic language was introduced into the interior and this later became part of the people's lives.
 - Many Muslims became wealthy and used their wealth to promote Islam.
 - Due to these routes, Muslim scholars penetrated the interior hence teaching of Islam.

Other factors

- The role of African leaders who did a lot in discriminating Islam e.g. Mansa Musa of Mali.
- The role of early Islamic movements like Al-Moraiids.
- The proximity of West Africa to North African states.
- The role of the 19th century Jihads also did a lot in the struggle.
- Colonialism in West Africa did a lot in spreading the message of Islam.
- The work done by the Fulani tribes and tribesmen who had embraced Islam earlier.
- Role of the Berbers who were traders from North Africa.
- The similarities between Islam and some African practices.
- The presence of trade items in West Africa which attracted a big number of Muslim traders to come.
- Role of trade (Trans sharan trade)
- African middle men-Touregs.
- Nature of the Africans (hospitable and accommodative)

$$1\frac{1}{2} \times 16 + 1 = 25 \text{marks}$$

9. Assess the role of Mansa Sulaiman to the development of Islam in the empire of Mali. (25 marks)

- Mansa Sulaiman was a brother to Mansa Musa of Mali.
He ruled the empire 1341-1360AD.
- He was a pious muslim and did his utmost towards the progress of Islam. At the time Mansa had gone for pilgrimage to Mecca he kept the throne on behalf of his brother.
- He was very tolerant, just and he promoted security and freedom of worship and his administration was characterized of peace, justice and tranquility.
- He established several measures for the administration of justice and rule of law. He therefore helped in the development of Malikite school of law.
- He established a regular and standing army and set up barracks and a regular police. This helped to maintain law and order for the promotion of Islam.
- As the empire grew so big, he helped to plant the seeds of unity and promotion of racial tolerance. By emphasizing Islamic brotherhood, he united Mandika people.

- He gave jobs to many Muslim scholars, this helped the growth of Islamic education.
- Sulaiman promoted financial organization; he taught his people how to invest and save, payments of Zakah and Sadaq and advised how to make expenditure of Zakah.
- He promoted international relationship with Sultan of Morocco.
- He always appointed Muslims to big administrative and political offices. These offices attracted a lot of economic benefits and redefined people's standards of living.
- During his reign, he decorated mosques with minarets and prayers performed in congregation
- Mansa Sulaiman emphasized and enforced the performing of the five daily Islamic prayers. This followed the construction of mosques all over the empire.
- He encouraged his subjects to give correct weights and measures, short measures had discouraged many traders to transact from Mali.
- Mansa Sulaiman promoted and improved on the legacy left behind by his brother Mansa Musa. He was a good accelerator of the growth of Islamic civilization.
- He gave security to the learned men as his brother Mansa Musa had done i.e. in the reign of his predecessor, the empire had been shattered and had been burnt down.
- He promoted the study of Fiqh (Islamic Jurisprudence) when he united scholars in the same field to teach his people.
- Promoted education by constructing more schools.
- Invited scholars from other Muslim countries.
- Emphasized Islamic dressing

Negatives / Failures

- Never performed pilgrimage despite the resource he had.
- Failure to stop Traditionalism completely in Mali.
- Never punished those who failed to respect Islamic law.
- In his reign there was veneration of ancestral places.
- Never put in place measures for the continuity of state after his death.

10. Explain the impact of the early Islamic movement to the spread of Islam in West Africa. (25 marks)

- The early Islamic movements in West Africa were Al-Moravid and the Sufi orders. They did a commendable work in the dissemination of Islam in the following ways;
- Some of them were militant hence used some force to advance Islamic message.
- They spread Islam and made it a major religion in West Africa something that has continued up to date.
- They introduced their religion (Islam) to the pagans who later embraced it regardless of whether it was introduced by conquest or peaceful.
- Islamic brotherhood was created in the region through the teaching of justice and equality.
- They made Islam overtake all the culture of the people who finally adopted it as their culture.
- Education and learning was also promoted by establishing Islamic institutions especially in the field of theology, philosophy etc.
- The movement promoted university education which became common in West Africa.
- They introduced and promoted the policy of state formation. Some states became mighty empires such as Mali, Songhai etc.
- They transformed a big part of West Africa from paganism to Islam.

- The movement open-ended West Africa to the international world i.e established relationship with the Abbasid Caliph in Baghdad.
- There was introduction of new architecture which was mostly Arabic in fashion i.e mosques and palaces were constructed.
- It brought in much wealth and prosperity between the 10th and 15th century i.e. Arabs who belonged to the religious movements brought in Islam and trade items.
- The work of the early movement contributed to the outbreak of the 19th century Jihads in his West Africa.
- It created urbanization in many cities of West Africa. Many people flocked to town to seek for employment that ended up taking up Islam.
- They put up permanent and semi-permanent structures being decorated with Arabic calligraphy. This elevated Islam in West Africa.

However

- These early movements created constant conflicts between members of different Islamic movement's e.g. Tijjaniya was always at war with Qadiriyyah.
- They also brought in some innovations in Islam i.e. veneration of tombs of their ancestors.
- They also valued the spirits of their dead ones which was anti-Islamic.
- They also confined to only their learning centers hence never did a lot in disseminating Islam.
- Due to militant nature, some people never converted whole heartedly.

- The influence of Muslim brotherhood.
- The desire for African independence e.g. Samoure Toure was not only a Jihadist but also a great resister to colonialism.
- The harsh and cruel leaders of West Africa e.g. Zaria, Katsima.
- The conflict between Muslims and non-Muslim leaders in west.
- Political discrimination which was carried in the Hausa land.
- There was need to establish a fair judicial system.
- The success of the earlier Jihads also facilitated. e.g. Wahab in Arabica & Mahad
- Despotic nature of Hausa land leaders
- Land discrimination i.e. Peasants couldn't access land
- Wide spread belief of the expected savior (Mahad)
- Collapse of strong Muslim empires of Mali, Songhai etc.
- Need to stop Christian influence in the empire.
 - Forceful recruitment of Muslims in the army intended to fight fellow Muslims.
 - The need to establish and maintain Islamic religion.

- Aspect of stopping any other conversation to Islam.

$$1\frac{1}{2} \times 16 + 1 = 25$$

12. To what extent were the European occupations of West Africa a blessing to the spread of Islam?
- It had taken long for West Africa having contacts with the Europeans. (25 marks)
 - By 1000AD, Europeans had learnt about West Africa and there were contacts with Magreb across the Mediterranean sea.
 - Serious contacts of Europeans with Arabs however developed during the search for the sea-route to India by the Portuguese.
 - By 1600AD, serious contacts had been made with the rest of the world. European imperialism was a certain extent contributed to the spread and development of Islam ...
 - The colonial economic and administrative policies either directly or indirectly resulted in the spread of Islam in West Africa eg they considered Muslims in Africa as people of higher civilization and accordingly they respected some of the institutions established by Islam/Muslims to keep Law and order.
 - The colonialists in lower administrative positions employed a number of Muslims. Some of these chiefs who were confirmed and given authority not only over the Muslims but also non-Muslims. Their contacts with them influenced them to Islam.
 - The European colonial powers improved on communication in their areas of influence e.g. Railways were built, ports and harbours were improved. These facilitated the movement of Islamic agents and traders in West Africa.
 - They established educational institutions and the spreading of educational skills weakened the traditional beliefs so much that youths were no longer exposed to the primitive practices but the new ideas of Islam.
 - Europeans colonialism led to the orientation of commercial traders from the desert to the coast thus increased the rate of Islamic penetration. Since some people flocked the new business and trading centers.
 - It should be noted that unlike Christianity Islam made a special appeal to the African Islamic culture corresponded more to their needs and aspirations
 - In West Africa, people looked at Christianity brought by colonialists as a system that had come to change their traditional social institutions in the way of defending it, they chose Islam.
 - They restored peace and stability in areas where people were living in state of inter-tribe conflicts and stopped war in West Africa. This enhanced the propagation of Islam.
 - In their policy of indirect rule, they highly respected Muslim rulers in the political Islamic institutions.
 - In areas where Muslims were mistreated by colonialists, it forced them to develop a sense of pan Islamism; this greatly helped in propagation of Islam.
 - When the colonialists stopped slave trade, it was an advantage to Islam since it made traders to settle down and spread Islam.
 - After stopping slave trade, European set up plantations in order to develop West Africa economically. This brought together both Muslims and non-Muslims which fostered the spread of Islam.
 - European colonialists strengthened the relationship between West Africa and North Africa, This promoted Islamic civilization.

Negatively

- Colonialists led to the collapse of many Muslim states e.g. Sokoto, Maccina and Tokolor. This retarded the development of Islam in many parts of West Africa.

- With European imperialism, Shariah was forgotten and replaced with constitution of imperialism.
- They brought about the suffering of Islam e.g. Arabic language which had been used in some areas to spread up the Islamisation was stopped.
- In the field of education, where Muslims used Arabic in Muslim schools, with European, they highly emphasized schools which were of European style.
- They facilitated the introduction and spread of Christianity in West Africa. These worked on the reports of Christian missionaries.
- Imperialism destroyed much of property in a number of ways. This greatly affected the progress of Islamic culture.
- The existence of colonialist in West Africa led to the collapse of Sokoto Caliphate which had recognized the Sultan as their spiritual and political leaders.
- Their policy of divide and rule greatly undermined the unity of West African states by destroying unity of people was a way of destroying Islam.
- Imperialism came with a new ideology which stressed Islam and material values. This meant that people stopped upholding the Islamic ideas and principles e.g. Zakah, fasting etc.
- They were instrumental in establishing geographical boundaries to demarcate spheres of influence.
- They introduced new taxes which were oppressive to the Africans. This promoted poverty among the Muslims who could no longer pay Zakah.
- They never prepared Muslims for post-independence era. I.e. only trained Christians to take up power in West Africa when they had left.
